FROM OVER THE WATER.

The Excitement Over the Pope's Circular Unabated—Crowds Gathering for the Coronation—Minor Matters.

Ireland.

LONDON, May 21.—The authorities have taken the somewhat extreme measure of prohibiting Messrs. Davitt, Healy and Quinn, who are in Richmond Prison, from receiving any visitors whatever. This action is stated officially to have been the direct result of the protests sent out by those gentlemen against the Pope's letter.

DUBLIN, May 21.—Meetings of sympathy with Mr. Parnell continue to be held in almost every district, and at every one of them protests are made against the tone of the Pope's circular.

DUBLIN, May 21.—The release of Carey, the informer, which had been confidently expected and which was announced through one of the American cable agencies, is untrue. It is true that he and his friends counted on his release so confidently that he announced his intention of remaining in Dublin, facing the men whom he regarded as his friends, and of vigorously prosecuting such of his tenants as had refused to pay rent for their premises while he was under arrest. He was sent back to Kilmalham Jail, and the Government is understood not to have made any promise of an early release.

LONDON, May 21.—The fund for Parnell now amounts to £9,000. It has been decided to keep the subscription list open until £50,000 are raised. Several meetings were held in London yesterday, at which appeals for subscriptions to the fund were made.

CASTLEBAR, IRELAND, May 21.—The body of a steward, named Quinn, who had been missing for four months, was found in a lake near here. A heavy chain was around his neck, showing that he had met death by foul means.

England.

LONDON, May 21.—Dr. Chambers, the famous author and publisher, died to-day.

Russia.

LONDON, May 21.—Telegrams received here announce the arrival of the Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh and General Wolseley and their suites at the Russian Capital to participate in the coming coronation ceremonies. The Duchess met with a warm, popular reception.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 21.—The American corvette Lancaster, the flag ship on the European Station, has arrived at Cronstadt in obedience to orders, enabling her officers to be present with the American Minister at the coming coronation.

ST. PETERSBURG, May 21.—The Moscow dispatches, both from official and newspaper sources, are very much more encouraging than they have been for several days. There were definite and reasonable fears that serious annoyance and sensational facts would accompany the trip of the Czar and Czarina to Moscow, but the result is quite contrary. Not only were there no revolutionary attempts and no annoyance, but when the Imperial party reached the old Capital to-day they met with an enthusiastic reception from the populace as well as from the authorities.

France.

PARIS, May 21.—An effort will be made in the Chamber of Deputies in the early part of this week to take from the table the bill in relation to popular demonstrations on public thoroughfares, and the Republicans will probably make a vigorous fight to secure its passage. Some of the clauses of the bill are stringent. Every person participating in such demonstrations is liable to imprisonment of from ten days to six months, and with fines of from 100 to 4,000 francs. A violent discussion is anticipated.

PARIS, May 21.—The village of Longefroy, in Savoy, has been almost completely destroyed by fire, and over 400 persons left homeless in the streets and on the country side. About seventy-five houses, mills and factories have been totally or partially destroyed.

Italy.

ROME, May 21.—It is believed now that the threat of resignation on the part of the DePretis Cabinet, and the subsequent endorsement of the Government's position by the Chamber was only a prelude to the reorganization of the Cabinet, for which the double movement was a pretext. Some of the elements are inharmonious, and they will probably be eliminated, so as to throw the Government legislative body into as complete accord as possible.

Austria.

VIENNA, May 21.—The illness of Count DeChambord, reported and denied is real and serious enough to cause apprehension. The injury to his leg will require good treatment at least for a month.

Egypt.

SUEZ, May 21.—A violent hurricane is reported at Aden, with considerable loss and damage to shipping.

Zanzibar.

LONDON, May 21.—Dispatches from the Cape of Good Hope say Cetewayo made a bold attack on Oham on Sunday and was for the third time defeated with a heavy loss.

MURDERERS CAUGHT.

The Paris Diamond Robbers Are Captured in Brussels.

Where They Are Engaged in Lavishly Distributing Their Costly Plunder Among Disipated Companions.

NEW YORK, May 21.—A special cable to the Herald from Paris to-day says: The Palais Royal murderers have been arrested in Brussels, and have confessed their guilt. One is a Belgian named Alphonse Regheim and the other a Frenchman named Blin. In broad daylight, while the careless Sunday crowds were streaming up and down the galleries of the Palais Royal, two ruffians succeeded in entering the back shop of a jeweler named Prestiot, throttling a servant girl and making off with jewelry valued at $10,000. They quietly gained the Belgian territory. It is the fashion to draw comparisons between the French and American police greatly to the disadvantage of the latter. But it is doubtful that a murder so audacious and public could occur in New York or London without immediate detection.

The following are the facts of the crime: Last Sunday at 1 o'clock, Prestiot's shop being closed and guarded only by Cesarine, the servant, Begheim, who is the husband of one of the shop women, and his accomplice Blin, an employee of a wine merchant, were prowling about outside of the back of the shop, which has two entrances, one facing the garden, the other facing the Rue Montpensier. A few minutes previously Mme. Begheim, who for some time has lived apart from her husband, had left the counter for the afternoon, and it being a holiday, she had gone to the country. In the Rue Montpensier she saw Begheim, and even exchanged a few words with him, but felt no alarm, though afterward she remembered having been asked several suspicious questions about who was to be in the shop that afternoon. Shortly after, it is supposed, Cesarine opened the street door for some reason, and Begheim and Blin, who were watching their opportunity, pushed in and closed the door behind them.

They followed Cesarine through an outer room, used as a kitchen, into a small parlor, where, at the foot of a winding staircase leading to the first floor, they smothered and strangled their helpless victim with a leather belt worn by one of them. Begheim and Blin accuse each other of performing the actual strangling. Each doggedly declares that he only held the woman while the other murdered her. This delicate point is of slender importance. Having disposed of the only obstacle which they dreaded, they, with a carving knife, turned the key of the inner door leading into a shop fronting the garden, and filled two bags at leisure with all the valuable rings, stones and jewels that they could lay their hands on, viz., eighty-eight lockets, 126 bracelets, seventy chains and 150 scarf pins and rings. Prestiot, like most Palais Royal jewelers, dealt both in imitation and real goods. The assassins carefully avoided burdening themselves with the former. On Thursday night the police were informed that the two men of doubtful appearance had passed the night at a house of ill-fame in the Rue St. Laurent, Brussels, where they had attracted attention by recklessly giving away rings and bracelets. The police took advantage of the clue thus afforded and Blin was forthwith arrested. When captured he was surrounded by treacherous Delahais to whom he was offering $50 chains for ten francs apiece, and diamond bracelets for a kiss.

At first he protested his innocence, stating he bought the jewels at London last year. Pressed with searching questions, he finally confessed he helped Begheim to commit the murder, and revealed the hiding place of a portion of the stolen valuables at a neighboring hotel. Begheim was then arrested in a wine shop near by. He likewise made a partial confession, and gave up his jewels. Neither Begheim nor Blin made serious resistance. The assassins are offenders well known to the French police. They first met each other in the prison at La Sante. There they were serving terms for theft. Begheim is a dead-beat of the worst description, who was such a source of annoyance to his respectable and unfortunate wife, she was obliged to leave him and earn her own living. He had been employed for a short time to take down the shutters at Prestiot's, but was dismissed for drunkenness and unpunctuality.

He is a man of low and repulsive appearance, thirty or thirty-five years old, with hard features, shifty eyes, very high cheek bones and coarse, sensual lips. Blin is tall, less villainous looking and smooth shaven. He is aged thirty-seven. He was born in Auxerre, and will, consequently, no doubt be extradited. Begheim, being a Belgian subject, will be tried in his own country. Both prisoners are at present incarcerated in the prison Des Petits Carmes, at Brussels. It may be remembered that the body of the victim was discovered by Mme. Begheim on returning from her country excursion on a Sunday night. For a moment she herself was suspected by the French authorities. There is not the slightest grounds, however, for the suspicion, as she is of irreproachable character, charming, and much beloved by all in the shop.

The parlor in which the murder was committed is a small, dark room about ten feet square, of the usual French pattern. On one side is a buffet, on the other the winding staircase referred to. It being Sunday the shutters were up both on the Rue Montpensier and Palais Royal frontages, which to some extent explains the ease with which the assassins evaded detection. The greatest excitement has been caused in Paris by the tragic affair, and the Palais Royal snappers, feeling little faith in the security offered them by the police, have organized an amateur police brigade to patrol their arcades at intervals during the night and prevent the occurrence of the thefts and deeds of violence which have so frequently taken place lately, owing to the singular toleration shown to the disreputable characters, male and female, who infest the pretty and once fashionable Palais Royal Garden.

CUSTER'S MASSACRE.

A True Account at Last, Given by a Squaw.

ST. PAUL, May 21.—Since General Custer and his command of three hundred were massacred by the braves of Sitting Bull, two or three accounts have been given, each of which purported to be a true history of the fight. But of the particulars of the scene there have been only meager accounts. The Pioneer Press now publishes an interview between a correspondent at Standing Rock Agency and the wife of Tatankahleska, or Spotted Horn Bull. This woman is first cousin of Sitting Bull, and the story is vouched for as being a true account of the battle. After describing the advance and the retreat of Major Reno, whom she declared to be either drunk or crazy, and his men thoroughly panic-stricken—the woman stated that the retreat and its consequent slaughter was scarcely ended when the blare of Custer's trumpets told the Sioux of his approach; but they were prepared for him. The men quietly crossed the river, and hundreds galloped to his rear out of range at first, but soon hemming him in constantly narrowing circles. The woman mounted her pony and rode behind her camp, where she could get a good view of the hills beyond. She saw the troops come up and dismount. Each fourth man seized the bridles of three horses besides his own. The rest deployed and advanced on the run toward the river. She saw the terrible effect of the withering fire which greeted the approach from the willows on the Indians' side of the stream, and laughed as she said: "Our people, boys and all, had plenty of guns and ammunition to kill the new soldiers. Those who had run away left them behind." Slowly trotting north along the outskirts of the encampment, she noted the Indians who had crossed getting closer to the troops. She watched the latter—those who were left of them—retreat to their horses and mount. She heard the yells of her kindred and the shouts of the whites; but soon, as the former grew plentier and the latter fewer, she could distinguish little save here and there an animated cluster of men and horses.

Slowly her pony jogged down the stream. When she reached the Minneconio camp, on the extreme left, not an hour's ride, she said not one white soldier was visible on the field. Of horses there were plenty; these the Indians spared. The Custer men were soon stripped and the Indians knew they had killed the long-haired chief, by his buckskin coat trimmed with beaver which they found upon him. The Sioux lost thirty killed and more than twice as many wounded, the Indians numbering 6,000 in all.

Our International Rifle Team Selected.

NEW YORK, May 21.—At a recent meeting of the Directors of the National Rifle Association a selection was made of a team to represent the American militia at the coming international rifle match at Wimbledon. It was expected that the team would be selected from among the competitors with reference to the scores they have made in the recent competitors' matches, and accordingly a number of the men who had shot for places were in attendance. They were, however, asked to leave the room. When the doors were reopened, just before the adjournment, it was announced that Farrow (one of the team last year, and one of the foremost competitors this year) had been omitted from the team on account of having failed to comply with certain technical conditions, although others who had also failed to comply with the same conditions had been selected.

The team as chosen consists of S. I. Scott, of Washington, D. C.; M. W. Bull, of Springfield, Mass.; G. W. Hinman, of Boston, Mass.; George Joiner, of Brooklyn; Thomas J. Dolan, Frank Stuart, J. L. Paulding and A. B. Van Housen, of New York; Walter Scott, of Oneonta, N. Y.; W. L. Cash and J. W. Pollard, of Washington, D. C.; J. H. Brown, of New York; John Smith, of Hoboken; F. J. Rabbeth, of Boston; E. O. Shakspeare, of Philadelphia, and G. E. P. Howard, of Newark. The only commissioned officers among them are Lieutenant Scott, Major Shakspeare and Lieutenant Colonel Howard. Mr. Howard was chosen captain of the team, with power to choose his own adjutant and fill any vacancy that may occur in the team. General Louis Fitzgerald was elected director of the Association.

BLACK HILLS FLOODED.

Deadwood and Other Towns Deluged.

The Property Loss Estimated at $600,000, and Several Lives Are Lost.

DEADWOOD, DAK., May 21.—A storm began here yesterday morning, with the highest water ever known. Whitewood stream runs through the heart of the city. The channel was cut 100 yards wide, and everything went before the flood. All the towns up the gulch were badly damaged. Pennington is entirely gone. The valley is flooded, and Spearfish is washed away. Crook City is nearly all gone. The water is now falling, though there is much snow in the mountains yet. George Chandler and wife and two unknown men are known to be drowned. The loss is roughly estimated at $600,000. Rope and basket communication is established between the two posts of the city.

BISMARCK, DAK., May 21.—The Tribune's special gives additional facts as to the flood at Deadwood. A heavy snow and flood reported some days ago in a dispatch from Stevenson was at Deadwood, and additional rain had fallen almost every day for a month, making the roads impassable, and saturating the ground thoroughly, with water. This was followed by a heavy fall of snow, which disappeared rapidly under the heavy, warm rain of Friday night and Saturday. The gulches at the valleys in the hills are from a few hundred feet to probably a quarter of a mile wide, generally. Deadwood is at the junction of the Whitewood and Deadwood gulches. Numerous gulches in this case emptied their accumulation of water from the mountains into these two main gulches and gave a volume of water that rushed down Whitewood in a resistless force. Central, this city, Anchor City, and Golden Gate, are on the Deadwood, above Deadwood City. The greater portion of Central would be above the flood, but for Anchor and Golden Gate there was no escape. The gulch is not over 600 feet wide. Deadwood is a town of 5,000 people. The main residence portion of the city is from 100 to 300 feet above the gulch, and the main business portion is above the danger line. The portion destroyed was occupied by cheap tenement houses, second-class hotels, laundries, small traders, sporting houses, livery stables, etc. Some of the buildings were built over the stream, which, at its ordinary stage, is but a few feet wide. Its locality was avoided, however, by shrewd investors, for danger was recognized. In this case timely warning was given by means of the telephone system existing in the hills and the most valuable articles were removed. So far but three bodies have been recovered, but it is now believed the loss of life has been great. The wild excitement was only equaled by that at the time of the fire.

Importing Girls for Eastern Factories.

COSCONO, N. H., May 21.—The proprietors of a large factory at Nashua, N. H., recently sent to Ireland for 300 girls to work in their establishment. The recruiting agent who went over found no difficulty in getting the full number of hands, sixty-five of them being literally "pauper laborers." The Cork Examiner, reporting the proceedings of a meeting of the guardians of the "Limerick Union," by whom $350 was appropriated to help of these girls contains the following statement made by Dr. O'Shaughnessy, one of the guardians: "It may be well to say that the passages from Galway to America will be paid by the American firm, and that the only cost proposed to be incurred by us will be the fare to Galway, and the releasing of some clothes pawned by those poor girls from time to time. I may also add that (in addition to the sixty-five names before men) over 100 girls will leave your city on tomorrow, without any cost to the rate-payers, and many of them are enabled to leave by the charity of many private individuals in the city, or at least from the funds of charitable institutions subscribed to by them."

Our Iron Product.

PHILADELPHIA, May 21.—The Secretary of the American Iron and Steel Association has prepared statistics of the manufacture of all grades of rolled iron in Pennsylvania and Ohio—the two largest producing States during the past year. The production of rolled iron in this State was 1,123,886 tons, being a decrease of 130,980 tons compared with 1881. Of this amount the various districts in the State made the following output: Philadelphia, 86,008 tons; Eastern Pennsylvania, except Philadelphia, 211,951 tons; Central Pennsylvania, 200,677 tons; Allegheny county, 430,627 tons, and Western Pennsylvania, except Allegheny county, 84,723 tons. The production in Ohio during 1882 was 858,608 tons, or 10,881 tons in excess of the previous year.

A MYSTIC MEMENTO

Found Among the Plunder After the Battle of Cerro Gordo.

NEW YORK, May 21.—The Florida Times-Union says: A Jacksonville man has come into possession of a rare and interesting relic of Masonic and National history. It is a beautiful Masonic apron captured by a Georgian artillery officer in the Mexican war, from the famous General Antonio Lopez de Santa Anna at the time of his memorable retreat when not only his private baggage but his wooden leg was left behind in his sudden flight.

General Santa Anna, it will be remembered, was a remarkable man; born in Jalapa in 1798, he began his military career in 1821 against the Royalists, and after some success he was given the command of Vera Cruz. He was ever a disturber, achieving distinction, and being put down and disgraced only to become a leader and popular hero once more. In 1837, defending Vera Cruz against the French, he lost his leg. In 1846 he became Generalissimo and Provisional President of Mexico, and with 20,000 men advanced to meet General Taylor at Buena Vista. He was defeated, raised a new army, and at Cerro Gordo, April 18, 1847, was put to ignominious flight, in which the Masonic apron which Mr. Weller possesses was captured, along with other property, by the Americans.

The apron is of white satin with a back of silk. At the top is a star embroidered in gold, within which is the mystic letter G; beneath this there is an embroidered scroll resembling a Maltese cross, on either side of which in large Roman characters are the golden letters M. B., the significance of which no local craftsman has interpreted. Beneath this on the apron's face are a large compass and a square, within which are a mallet and trowel in gold, suspended by a silver chain. The apron is otherwise decorated with sprays of acacia in green and gold silk floss.

ANTHONY COMSTOCK

Will Lose His Deputy Sheriff's Badge.

NEW YORK, May 21.—While James Rickard, employed as a messenger in the Sheriff's office, was standing in the passageway of the City Hall station of the elevated railroad, looking at the Brooklyn bridge yesterday, he was accosted by Anthony Comstock, who demanded to know what he was doing there. Rickard wished to know by what authority he asked the question. Comstock replied that he possessed sufficient authority to compel him to move on. A wrangle followed, ending with a tussle. Comstock showed his special Deputy Sheriff's badge and took Rickard into custody. Justice White, in the Tombs Police Court, dismissed the complaint.

Sheriff Davidson declared his intention of taking away the Deputy Sheriff's warrant and badge possessed by Mr. Comstock.

Mr. Rickard said that he stopped in the passageway for a moment to look at the Brooklyn bridge. A man, whom he did not know, but afterward learned was Anthony Comstock, roughly demanded to know why he blocked the passageway. He demanded to know what authority he had. Comstock replied that he had sufficient authority to throw him down stairs. At the same time Comstock and one of his followers seized Rickard and began to drag him down the steps. Rickard resisted, and when about four steps from the bottom the party fell and rolled to the bottom. Rickard's clothing was torn. He was dragged to the Tombs, with the result already stated. Robert Bonnyne, stenographer of Part I, of the Supreme Court, characterized the conduct of Comstock and his assistant as an outrage and brutal in the extreme. Mr. Rickard will begin an action against Comstock for unlawful arrest.

Sanitary Experiments With Convicts.

ROME, May 21.—An interesting debate took place in Parliament last week on the employment of convicts in agricultural operations, which has been going on for some years at the Abbey of the Tre Fontane in the Roman Campagna, under the Trappists. The object with which these works were started was to ascertain if the cultivation of the soil would result in purifying the air of the Campagna, the general opinion being that the malaria is caused by atmospheric influences unsuceptible of modification. The results have been most satisfactory. At first the monks were obliged to live within the city walls during the bad season, but since the ground has come under cultivation, and, above all, since the Eucalyptus globulus has been planted on a large scale in the neighborhood, the Abbey has been inhabited all the year round, and the fevers which its inmates still sometimes suffer, are of a mild character, and rarely fatal; whereas, at the outset something like a fourth of the little community succumbed every year. The debate proved that the health of the two hundred and eighty convicts employed on the works was satisfactory, the average annual deaths from malaria not exceeding three. The Government has lately made a very large grant of land in perpetuity to the Trappists, who have already planted on it no fewer than one hundred thousand eucalyptus trees, which are all doing well.

It seems that a scheme is actually on foot to build a new Suez canal to run through the heart of Egypt. Large British ship owners are at the back of the movement. Our exports of domestic breadstuffs during the first four months of the present year amounted in value to $71,915,717, against $45,475,812 during the first four months. The address issued by the Pope to the bishops of Ireland, refers to the money being raised for Mr. Parnell, and says that it is intolerable that a priest, much more a bishop, should give aid and countenance to such an object. The document condemns all collections which may be employed as a means of inciting rebellion against the laws.

The delay of the chairman and secretaries of the Louisville Convention in announcing the vote on the seventh ballot for Governor, was probably for the same reason that an auctioneer never announces his sale until the bids are all in. When there was a clear understanding of how the delegates wished to have their votes recorded, the result was announced, and Knott was nominated.

The following sensible advice to colored voters is given by the New York Sun: There is a good deal of dissension among the colored voters of the country in regard to politics. A national convention has been called to meet in Washington to consider the questions at issue, but it seems to encounter great opposition in some influential quarters. Many of the most intelligent negroes bitterly complain that the Republicans have used their votes in the elections without giving them any adequate return in the way of office. There is truth in these complaints. Ever since the Fifteenth Amendment was adopted, the Republicans have acted on the assumption that they owned the negro vote of the whole country. The colored men should break this yoke, and assert their right to cast their ballots as they please. But they should not study so much their own peculiar interests as the real welfare of the whole people; and at any rate they should not be serf of any political party.

Says the Cincinnati News Journal: In considering the awful stories which the politicians who were disemboweled by the recent nomination have to tell about the manner of Proctor Knott's selection, it is necessary to remember that the delay which occurred was strictly in order at the request of the chairman of the delegation whose charge did the work. Delay was asked in order to hunt up and read the instructions. He would have been guilty of outrageous haste if he had declined to grant delay for that purpose. When the instructions were read they were found to require the vote to go next to Knott, which settled the business. The complaints have not come from Col. Jones, but from a few hasty and angry delegates to be echoed by the little knot of office holders who are known as the Republican party in Kentucky. They hope to add at least as many as thirteen votes to their column on account of an apt misrepresentation of this affair.

E. W. CLARK, the last appointee of the Board of Civil Service Commissioners, is said to be as destitute of the principles of honesty as D. B. Keim, who was compelled to retire under the pressure of public sentiment. Clark, it is shown, was a subservient tool of John Sherman's and was the originator of the idea of employing revenue cutters in running conventions. He was one of the original debauchers of the public service and under the direction of Sherman, one of the most expert instruments of bossism and an adept in all corrupt methods. This is the way the commission is starting out in the work of reform.

Resolutions Adopted at a Meeting of the Parnell Committee.

A special dispatch to the Herald from Dublin says: At a meeting of the Parnell tribute committee the following resolution was adopted: That we deeply deplore the action taken by the sacred congregation with reference to our movement; that we believe the arguments advanced in the pope's circular are founded on misrepresentation and not justly applicable either to the public life and work of Parnell or to an act of national gratitude to him on the part of the Irish people; and that we are determined to persevere in the work which we have undertaken, and to obtain to the utmost of our power the help of the people of Ireland, and the Irish race are offering Parnell an adequate recognition of his labors and service for the Irish cause.

PERSONALS.

Miss Emma Sauters is visiting at Cynthia.

Mayor W. D. Young, of Ripley, will deliver the address on Memorial Day at Aberdeen.

General Abe Baford has withdrawn from the Christian Church and adopted the Episcopal faith. The reason for this religious change of base is, it is said, because his utterances concerning the church and turf, were not acceptable to many of his church associates.

We find the following in the Covington column of the Cincinnati News-Journal:

The injury received by Mr. F. M. Vanden in his fall on Friday night is not so dangerous as was at first supposed, although it is very serious. His knee was twisted to the bone from side to side, the bone being four or five inches long, and the flesh on the upper edge of the wound was forced back so as to lay the knee cap bare. Under the most favorable circumstances, it will be several weeks before the wounded man will be able to go about.

The judgment of the Bracken Circuit Court in the case of Bradford's administrator, against Bradford's heirs, has been affirmed by the Court of Appeals.

ABERDEEN ITEMS.

A large number of the members of the lodge of Knights of Pythias left from this place to attend the grand celebration of Cincinnati.

Some people seem to be afraid of being too little for fear of appearing too pitiful. Hence everybody is greeted as Tom, Dick and Harry, irrespective of age or social position. True politeness springs from natural refinement, and hence when the appellation of Mr. or Miss in addressing a person, we naturally attribute it to the source from whence it springs.

Our enterprising business gentlemen are fast making a laudible move as to illuminating our town. Main street presents, of evenings, quite a cheerful appearance.

There is a report in circulation concerning one of our little hazel-eyed beauties of Second street, and a prominent Maysville gentleman, that cupid is playing havoc with her in that direction.

Miss Little Cheesman, a most cultivated young lady, left on the Morning Mail, Monday, to visit Hon. David Gibson, who has one of the most palatial residences of Clifton.

Mr. and Mrs. George Seiditz and daughter left Sunday on the Boston for the Queen City.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin and daughter, who have been visiting the family of Mr. L. C. A. Reidle, left on the Boston Sunday for Cincinnati.

The ladies of this town are acquiring quite a taste for equestrianism. We noticed a lively couple galloping out the pike Wednesday evening.

Notwithstanding Sunday being a rainy day the May meeting was largely attended by people from the surrounding country. The refreshing shower had a reviving effect on some of the wilted bonnets.

COUNTY POINTS.

GERMANTOWN.

Elder Ballcock preached at the Christian Church Sunday.

Mr. Robert Thompson, and family spent last week, in Maysville.

Mr. J. A. Martin and wife formerly of this place, but now of Ohio, are visiting friends here.

Mr. Leslie Jolly, from near Marshall's Station, was in town the first of the week.

The familiar face of Dr. Frazee was seen upon our streets, one day last week.

Mr. Adie Grimsom was thrown from a horse recently and had his shoulder dislocated.

Last Saturday, Drs. Dimmitt and Brownling of this place assisted in removing a tumor from a lady residing near Lawrence Creek.

The greatest surprise of the season, to the inhabitants of this town, was the marriage of our old friend, Arthur Thompson. He passed through here Thursday, as we supposed to attend the races. Whether he attended them we never learned. But we did learn that he was at the Christian Church in Maysville, and that Miss Breeze is no longer to be called by this name, but will be known in the future as Mrs. J. A. Thompson. May prosperity and a long and happy married life attend them.

One of our young men, was told by a physician that he (the physician) had been attending a case of small-pox. Thinking probably that he was in danger of catching the disease, the young man wrote to a lady friend informing her that he did not consider it safe to call for eight or ten days. He discovered the joke and admits being frightened, but denies writing to his friend. It is a good case on that, whether true or false.

The boys are hunting Broadway.

They are passing at noon, eve, and midday. With seldom even pause.

Why do they pass so often you ask.

To answer is really no very great task.

To gain but a smile from "N. T."

THE ONE MEANS OF CIVILIZATION.

There is but one rational way to settle disputes between capital and labor, and that is by arbitration. We know that capitalists claim the right to pay what they please, and that working men have the privilege of striking in a body if they are not suited in wages, but this settles nothing at all, and a resort to such extreme measures is highly discreditable to the civilization of the present time. The strike is a relic of past ages and belongs to a period when knowledge was not so generally diffused as it now is. It was the last desperate resort of men who could not improve their condition by any other means and it almost always ended disastrously to those engaged in it.

A Witty Rebuke.

Galsville (Ga.) Eagle. A father in our town, while reading a newspaper the other day, was asked by his boy the meaning of the word "transparent." Not wishing to be disturbed he answered curtly, "It means across the Atlantic; don't trouble me with any more questions." The boy, feeling hurt, left the room saying as he did so, loud enough to let his father hear, "And I suppose 'transparent' means a cross parent."

If you wish the whitest and most delightful bread, ask your grocer for "Old Gold Patent Flour," made by Robinson & Co.'s New Process Roller Mill. m15

Try "Old Gold Patent," the finest, whitest and most satisfactory flour ever offered in this market. Manufactured by Robinson & Co.'s New Process Roller Mill. may14

Mr. S. B. Oldham has a new gas burner which makes a wonderful saving in gas. It gives a broad, clear flame and consumes less gas than any other burner in use, and can be regulated to burn low or high without moving the keys on the fixtures. Give them a trial. m1611w

BALENESS may be avoided by the use of Hall's Hair Renewer, which prevents the falling out of the hair, and stimulates it to renewed growth and luxuriance. It also restores faded or gray hair to its original dark color, and radically cures nearly every disease of the scalp. s a p.

To Buyers of Clothing.

I take this method of informing my friends in Maysville and vicinity that I am now with C. R. Mahley & Co. The mammoth clothiers of Cincinnati. All orders for suits, goods, &c., sent in my care will receive my personal attention. Goods will be sent on approval to responsible parties—otherwise C. O. D. SMALL-POX RAVAGES.

Fearful Account of the Pest From West Virginia.

WHEELING, W. VA., May 21.—Additional reports from the small-pox stricken districts at the lower end of the State have been received here, and contain scarcely a gleam of light or a ray of hope. The scourge has spread over a frightful extent of territory, and the death rate has been alarmingly large. D. Bee, a member of the State Board of Health for Mercer county, writes: "The situation is more gloomy than ever. There are now eighty-four cases, with twenty-five deaths in Mercer county, and an equal number in Wyoming, and the disease is still raging as bad as ever. Wagon loads of supplies, including bread, medicines, flour, crackers, molasses, sugar, rice, coffee, salt, and other articles have been sent from Mercer and Wyoming county for the sick and their families, and everything possible is being done. The last report from Dr. Gooch, of Wyoming, is not encouraging. The quarantine is complete, but the disease is universally malignant and fatal. Some of the best citizens of the two counties have died. Whole families are dying out, neither sex nor age being spared. Our information from some parts of the infected districts is meager and unreliable, and it is feared the whole truth has not been told."

A NOTORIOUS GOOSE.

Known Throughout All Germany.
New York, May 21.—A correspondent writing from Berlin says: There lately died in Stuttgart a goose whose martial fame has extended over all the German Empire. This eccentric animal, when still a gosling, abandoned its flock, dismissed all recollections of its infancy, repudiated the conventional views and habits of geese, and boldly marching into the barracks of a Uhlan regiment stationed itself one fine day next to the sentry-box. Touched by this predilection for their corps, the Uhlans erected a shed for the goose, and for twenty-three years neither threats nor persuasion have been able to separate the martial bird from its adopted regiment for any length of time. It has at different times changed quarters with the corps from Eslingen to Ulm. When the Uhlans went to fight for their country the forsaken and desolate goose took up for the time with a battalion of infantry; but no sooner did the first Uhlans re-enter the town than the goose marched out to meet them, and returned with them to her old quarters. She has now been stuffed, and is to be seen in the glass case on the gate of the barracks at Stuttgart.
